The Scholarship without Borders (SWB) project of the Graduate School of Education and Psychology at Pepperdine University serves students with the opportunity, preparation, and resources, to present their research and selected works and co-curricular contributions at peer-reviewed conferences and throughout academic publishing.

SWB recognizes that there are multiple organizations and journals dedicated to enhancing, promoting, and improving academic scholarship within the several disciplines and scientific fields.

SWB provides recommendations about peer-reviewed journal publications and conferences in the academic and scientific community that have also been represented by current faculty, students, and members of the alumni.

The recognized staff of the SWB project neither endorse nor condemn any organization, publisher, or association.
