

illuminating Relevant Clinical Issues & Networking with Colleagues

ON THE PROBLEMS OF MARRIAGE/RELATIONSHIPS AND THEIR TREATMENT: A SELF-PSYCHOLOGICAL UNDERSTANDING

Self psychology is a psychodynamic theory and therapy developed by Heinz Kohut that focuses on the critical nature of empathy and its importance in understanding the development and maturation of Narcissism in the evolving self.

In this presentation, Dr. George Nalbach will explore the tenets of self psychology and how they impact marriages/relationships, along with self psychological techniques utilized in the therapy process to address marital and relationship problems.

Friday, October 1, 2010

7:00-9:00 PM, 3rd Floor, Room 324/326

Networking Begins at 8:30 PM

Pepperdine University - Irvine Graduate Campus

George Nalbach, Ph.D. has been an adjunct professor at Pepperdine University's GSEP program since 1989 teaching courses in substance abuse, techniques, and practicum. Dr. Nalbach is the associate executive director of Santa Anita Family Service and has a private practice in Monrovia, California. Dr. Nalbach also spent 11 years teaching at CSPP/Alliant University teaching Psychopathology and Self Psychology.

If you are unlicensed, you may be able to get hours towards licensure with your clinical supervisor's approval! This is a FREE event! Please RSVP to Kathleen Wenger at psyprofdev@pepperdine.edu.